

SOCIAL WORK EDUCATION: CRITICAL IMPERATIVES FOR SOCIAL CHANGE

LINDA HARMS SMITH

SUPERVISED BY PROFESSOR NORMAN DUNCAN

A thesis submitted to the Faculty of Humanities, University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, in fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

0318676H

Johannesburg, 20 December, 2012

DECLARATION OF ORIGINALITY

I, the undersigned, hereby declare that this is my own original work and that all fieldwork was undertaken by me. Any part of this study that does not reflect my own ideas has been fully acknowledged in the form of citations. No part of this thesis has been submitted in the past, or is being submitted, or is to be submitted for a degree at any other university.

Linda Harms Smith
University of the Witwatersrand
Johannesburg

LINDA HARMS SMITH

DATE

DEDICATION

May rage, compassion and hope illuminate the despair of a promethean struggle, in a world of oppression and unrestrained greed - and may the philosophical interpretation of the world lead to its change. This work is dedicated to those who have, and continue to suffer, the consequences of colonialism and apartheid, and now the unrestrained magnitude of wealth accumulation and inequality. The silence of the reading of this work is dedicated to those past and recently dead in the struggle.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The solitary nature of pursuing this work would not have been possible without a collective of patience, support, guidance and inspiration. I have deep gratitude for this.

Professor Norman Duncan supervised this project with immense wisdom and clarity, always respecting my musings while animating further exploration of ideas. The intellectual freedom, challenge and stimulation have been foundational. Thank you for the privilege I have had of sharing this journey with you.

The University of the Witwatersrand supported this study through generous study leave and significant financial support. This is greatly appreciated.

I was surrounded by past and present colleagues and comrades in the Department of Social Work at the University of the Witwatersrand and beyond, who have offered support, encouragement, ideas and practical help. Many debates helped resolve impasses in my thinking. International colleagues specifically from the Social Work Action Network, who embody radical and critical social work, have been mentors and inspirational in this process. Thank you to Iain Ferguson, Michael Lavalette, Vasilios Ioakimidis, and Maria Pendaraki.

Thank you to the National Research Foundation of South Africa for financial support through a grant from the Thuthuka programme. Thank you to my research assistants, Nkosiyazi Dube and Kirsty Hunter for careful and consistent hard work and support, to my daughter Thandi Smith for doing the many hours of transcribing and to Priscilla and Gavin Finch for their meticulous attention to detail and editing assistance.

My friends and family have supported, assisted, sacrificed for, tolerated and inspired the pursuit of this study. Thank you to my husband and life partner, Brian and my children, Mika, Keilah, Thandi, Jordan and our daughter-in-law Sam. You have endlessly encouraged, helped and inspired me. Thank you especially to Pat Birkett, Leila Dodds, Francine Masson, Penny Webster, Victor Chikadzi, Professor Edwell Kaseke, Gabriele Mohale, Wyn Pyper, Thandi Buso, Lerato Moroeng, Doreen Hlatshwayo, Shahana Rasool and the many others who supported this process.

Thank you also to my late parents Jan and Gwen Harms, who would have been so proud and delighted. They taught me to believe that a better world is possible.

Thank you to all the participants in the study for enthusiastically sharing ideas and participating in the development of a counter-hegemonic discourse for social work that is critical, engaged and constitutive of social change.

Shamed, dishonoured, wading in blood and dripping with filth, thus capitalist society stands. Not as we usually see it, playing the roles of peace and righteousness, of order, of philosophy, of ethics – as a roaring beast, as an orgy of anarchy, as a pestilence breath, devastating culture and humanity – so it appears in all its hideous nakedness

Rosa Luxemburg, The Junius Pamphlet, 1916

The birds they sang, at the break of day, start again, I heard them say
Don't dwell on what has passed away, or what is yet to be.
Ah the wars they will be fought again
The holy dove she will be caught again, bought and sold and bought again
the dove is never free.

Ring the bells that still can ring,
forget your perfect offering
There is a crack in everything,
that's how the light gets in.

We asked for signs, the signs were sent:
the birth betrayed, the marriage spent
Yeah the widowhood, of every government, signs for all to see.
I can't run no more, with that lawless crowd,
while the killers in high places,
say their prayers out loud.
But they've summoned, they've summoned up,
a thundercloud,
and they're going to hear from me.

Ring the bells that still can ring ...

You can add up the parts,
but you won't have the sum
You can strike up the march,
there is no drum
Every heart, every heart, to love will come,
but like a refugee.

Ring the bells that still can ring
Forget your perfect offering
There is a crack, a crack in everything
That's how the light gets in.

Ring the bells that still can ring...

Leonard Cohen, Anthem

Abstract

Hegemonic discourses and ideologies of social work in South Africa, arose from the racist capitalism of colonialism and apartheid. Imperatives for social justice and social change therefore require that social work education reflect on and develop discourses of radical and critical knowledge and practice. The main aim of the study was to explore the extent to which South African social work knowledge and education, as reflected in various formal and narrative discourses, meets critical imperatives for social change and transformation. The study was qualitative in nature, using a depth-hermeneutic approach, with various interrelated, coherent empirical processes. These include reviewing extant theory to contribute to a framework of knowledge and practice constitutive of social change, conducting a politically engaged, critical thematic analysis of social work discourse constitutive of social change, as reflected historically in a selection of formal South African social work texts and in the narratives from group conversations among South African social work educators. Early South African social work knowledge and practice had emerged from the 'social hygiene' and eugenics movement, but later, Afrikaner nationalist ideology and liberal and racist capitalism shaped social work. In post-apartheid South Africa, discourses of social development and reform within a free market rational economy; ideologies of liberalism and capitalism as solutions to structural social problems, neo-liberal discourses of individual responsibility and valorisation of agency, social control and regulation, are prevalent. Social work knowledge and practice consistently supported hegemonic ideologies of the state. Throughout the history of social work however, there was evidence of counter-hegemonic, radical and critical discourse, albeit suppressed and hidden. Knowledge and practice constitutive of social change can be positioned on a continuum from oppressive, domesticating and colonizing knowledge and practice, to coercion and status quo maintenance, to institutional and societal reformist knowledge and practice; to transformational and critical knowledge and practice; and to radical and revolutionary knowledge and practice.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Dedication	iii
Acknowledgements	iv
Quotation Rosa Luxemburg	vi
Quotation Leonard Cohen	vii
Abstract	viii

CHAPTER ONE: INTRODUCTION

1.1	Problem statement and rationale for the study	1
1.2	Social work and the South African context	8
1.2.1	The South African socio-political context	8
1.2.2	South African social work practice	9
1.2.3	Trends in South African social work training	11
1.3	Aims	15
1.3.1	Main aim	15
1.3.2	Subsidiary aims	15
1.3.3	Research questions	16
1.4	Research design and methodology	17
1.4.1	Research design	17
1.4.2	Research methodology	17
1.4.2.1	Data collection	17
1.4.2.2	Data	19
1.4.2.2.1	Formal social work texts	19
1.4.2.2.2	Group conversation participants	19
1.4.2.3	Data analysis	20
1.4.2.4	Preparation	21
1.5	Trustworthiness	21
1.6	Limitations of the research design and methodology	22
1.7	Ethical considerations	22
1.7.1	Introduction	22

1.7.2	Voluntary participation and informed consent by participants	22
1.7.3	Confidentiality	23
1.7.4	Non-maleficence and beneficence	23
1.8	Time frame	24
1.9	Brief description of chapters	24

CHAPTER TWO: HISTORICAL OVERVIEW OF SOCIAL CHANGE AND SOCIAL WORK IN SOUTH AFRICA

2.1	Introduction	27
2.2	Perspectives, themes and chronology in South African history	29
2.3	Historical eras and historiography of social work	31
2.3.1	Pre-colonial era and colonial conquest	31
2.3.2	Industrialisation and mining revolution 1870 – 1920	35
2.3.3	1920s until 1948	40
2.3.4	Apartheid Era from 1948	47
2.3.5	Transition 1983 - 1994	50
2.3.6	Post 1994	52
2.4	Conclusion	57

CHAPTER THREE: SOCIAL WORK KNOWLEDGE AND PRACTICE: PERSPECTIVES AND APPROACHES

3.1	Introduction	59
3.2	Nature of social work approaches	60
3.3	Frameworks for the analysis of social work theories	61
3.3.1	Introduction	61
3.3.2	Conceptual differences and ideology	62
3.3.3	Early theoretical frameworks	62
3.3.4	Construction of social work discourse	65
3.3.5	Psychological and political validity	67
3.4	Progressive and radical social work perspectives and approaches	71
3.4.1	Introduction	71
3.4.2	Radical social work approaches	71

3.4.3	Anti-oppressive and anti-discriminatory social work	73
3.4.4	Empowerment practice	74
3.4.5	Critical social work	75
3.5	Conclusion	76

CHAPTER FOUR: THEORETICAL FRAMEWORK

4.1	Introduction	78
4.2	Problems of conceptual determinations in theorising	80
4.3	Critical theorizing for social work	82
4.3.1	Marxist analysis for social work	82
4.3.2	Anti-colonial theory	84
4.3.3	Critical processes	86
4.3.4	Reflexivity	88
4.4	Construction of theoretical framework for social work theory and knowledge constitutive of social change	89
4.4.1	Introduction	89
4.4.2	Ideology and its processes	93
4.4.2.1	Ideological interpellation	93
4.4.2.2	Modes of operation of ideology	95
4.4.2.3	Subjectification and qualification	97
4.4.2.4	Summary of ideological processes	98
4.4.3	Terrains of ideological contestation	99
4.4.3.1	Terrains of contestation: Agency and structure	99
4.4.3.2	Terrains of contestation: 'Race', racism and racist discourse	102
4.4.3.2.1	Introduction	102
4.4.3.2.2	'White talk' and 'white' racist frame	103
4.4.3.2.3	Everyday, institutional and symbolic racism	104
4.4.3.2.4	Obfuscation of racist discourse	105
4.4.3.2.5	Internalisation of racism and oppression	106
4.4.3.3	Terrains of contestation: Power, privilege and oppression	106
4.4.3.4	Terrains of contestation: Politics of recognition versus redistribution	111
4.4.3.5	Terrains of contestation: Reform or revolution	112

4.4.3.6	Terrains of contestation: Ideologies and knowledge	113
4.4.3.6.1	Introduction	113
4.4.3.6.2	Global neoliberal capitalism	113
4.4.3.6.3	Liberalism, paternalism and charity	115
4.4.3.6.4	Postmodernism	115
4.4.3.6.5	Social development as paradigm	116
4.4.4	Continuum of social work knowledge and discourse constitutive of social change	117
4.4.4.1	Oppressive, domesticating and colonising social work knowledge and practice	117
4.4.4.2	Coercive, status quo maintenance knowledge and practice	119
4.4.4.3	Institutional and societal reformist knowledge and practice	120
4.4.4.4	Transformative and critical knowledge and practice	121
4.4.4.4.5	Radical and revolutionary knowledge and practice	122
4.5	Conclusion	124

CHAPTER FIVE: RESEARCH DESIGN AND METHODOLOGY

5.1	Research design and methodology	125
5.1.1	Overall approach	125
5.1.2	Critical theory and qualitative research	126
5.1.3	Value neutrality in critical research	127
5.1.4	Problems with a postmodernism perspective	129
5.1.5	The role of the author and discourse	130
5.2	Research methods	132
5.2.1	Introduction	132
5.2.2	Theoretical framework for knowledge and practice constitutive of social change	133
5.2.3	Historical analysis of the context of South African social work knowledge development	134
5.2.4	Analysis of South African social work texts	136
5.2.4.1	Introduction	136
5.2.4.2	Selection of texts	137
5.2.4.3	Analysis of texts	140

5.2.5	Group conversations with social work educators	144
5.2.5.1	Introduction	144
5.2.5.2	Selection of participants	145
5.2.5.3	Preliminary study	145
5.2.5.4	Collection of group conversation data	145
5.2.5.5	Analysis of group conversations	147
5.2.6	Integration of analysis of textual and narrative data	148
5.2.7	Personal reflection	150
5.3	Trustworthiness	151

DATA PRESENTATION AND ANALYSIS (CHAPTER 6, 7, 8)

INTRODUCTION TO SECTION

CHAPTER SIX: DATA PRESENTATION AND ANALYSIS: OVERVIEW OF JOURNAL TITLES

6.1	Introduction	155
6.2	Overview of titles of articles from Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk	155
6.2.1	Description of articles	155
6.2.2	Theoretical and ideological foci across historical periods	156
6.2.2.1	Theoretical perspectives	157
6.2.2.2	Ideological positions	162
6.2.2.3	Levels of intervention	171
6.2.3	Fields and content areas of titles	173
6.3	Conclusion	183

CHAPTER SEVEN: DATA PRESENTATION AND ANALYSIS: ANALYSIS OF SELECTION OF TEXTS

7.1	Introduction	184
7.2	Selection of texts from the period prior to the 1960s	186
7.2.1	Introduction	186
7.2.2	Report of the Carnegie Commission of Inquiry: The Poor White Problem in South Africa: 1932	186

7.2.3	Inaugural lecture of Professor John Gray, University of the Witwatersrand (1937)	189
7.2.4	Social Work curriculum (1940) of the Jan Hofmeyr School	191
7.2.5	Report of the South African National Conference on the Post-War Planning of Social Welfare Work (1944)	193
7.3	Selection of texts from the 1960s and 1970s	199
7.3.1	Introduction	199
7.3.2	Discussion of selected texts	201
7.3.2.1	Seawright, T.R. (1965). The conflict between theory and practice in social casework. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 1(1), 10-16	201
7.3.2.2	Uys, M. (1965). Die begrip problem gesin: 'n Literatuurstudie. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 2(3), 9-13 [translation: The concept of the problem family: A literature study]	203
7.3.2.3	Blignault, A.P. (1966). Psychiatric problems and treatment for low-income groups. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 3(2), 77-78	204
7.3.2.4	Bopape, M. (1967). Training of social work students to serve the needs of a changing South African bantu society. Social work/Maatskaplike werk , 3(1), 24-27	205
7.3.2.5	Bodenstein, J.W. (1970). The bantu ex-prisoner: Some cultural patterns in his reaction to imprisonment and their relevance regarding rehabilitation. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 6(3), 144-146	206
7.3.2.5	Cilliers, S.P. (1971). The Need for Population Control in South Africa. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 7(1)	208
7.3.2.7	Theron, E. (1972). The changing welfare scene in Southern Africa and the contribution of social workers. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 8(3), 184-188	209
7.3.2.8	Muller, A. (1972). Social work education in the Republic of South Africa. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 8(4), 263-267	210
7.3.2.9	Malherbe, E.G. (1973). The Carnegie Poor White Investigation: Its origin and sequels. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 9(2), 81-90	211

7.3.3	Ideologies and discourse evident in selected texts during the 1960s and 1970s	213
7.4	Selected texts from the period 1980 - 1985	221
7.4.1	Introduction	221
7.4.2	Discussion of selected articles from the period 1980-1985	222
7.4.2.1	Steyn, J. (1981). Die rol van die privaatsektor in die bevordering van vreedsame vooruitgang in Suid Afrika. Social Work Maatskaplike Werk , 17(2), 86-92 [The role of the private sector in the advancement of peaceful progress in South Africa]	222
7.4.2.2	Ramphal, R. (1983). Meeting the needs of troubled families. Social Work/ Maatskaplike Werk , 19(3), 162-163	224
7.4.2.3	Slabbert, M. (1984). An Appraisal of critical social work and South African social problems. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 20(2), 114-116	225
7.4.3	Ideologies and discourse in selected texts during the period 1980-1985	227
7.5	Selected of texts from the period 1986 - 1993	231
7.5.1	Introduction	231
7.5.2	Discussion of selected texts from the period 1986 -1993	233
7.5.2.1	Small, A. (1987). Thoughts on making social work education relevant to South African needs. Social work/ Maatskaplike werk , 23(1), 5-12	235
7.5.2.2	Pelser, M. (1987). Die Agtiende Algemene Vergadering van die Gesamentlike Universiteitskomitee vir Maatskaplike Werk en Dosentekonferensie, 1987. [The eighteenth general meeting of the Joint Universities Committee for Social Work and Social Work Educators' Conference]. Social Work / Maatskaplike Werk , 23(1)	235
7.5.2.3	Louw, L. (1991). Apartheid, poverty, social transformation: A pilgrimage to a non-racial democracy: challenges for social work in South Africa. Social Work/ Maatskaplike Werk , 27(1), 22-27	238
7.5.2.4	Patel, L. (1991). The evolution of a democratic welfare policy for a post apartheid South Africa. Social Work/ Maatskaplike Werk , 27(2), 154-164	243

7.5.2.5	Bernstein, A.J. (1993). Rewriting the future of social work education. Social work/Maatskaplike Werk , 29(3), 268-278	244
7.5.3	Ideologies and discourse in the selected texts of the period 1986 – 1993	246
7.6	Social work discourse in selected articles from the post-apartheid period after 1994	248
7.6.1	Introduction	248
7.6.2	Discussion of texts from the period after 1994	250
7.6.2.1	Louw, L. (1994). Community intervention in a society in transition: social action. Social Work / Maatskaplike Werk , 30(4), 295-298	250
7.6.2.2	Lombard, A. (1996). Developmental social welfare in South Africa: A theoretical framework. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 32(2), 162-172	252
7.6.2.3	Green, S. (1998). Community practice: Opportunities for community building. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk . 34(4), 362-369	255
7.6.2.4	Submission from the welfare sector to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission (1999)	257
7.6.2.5	Sewpaul, V. (2001). Economic globalisation and social policy reform: SW curriculum in the South African context. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 38(2), 309-323	263
7.6.2.6	Gray, M. and Collet van Rooyen, C.A.J. (2002). The strengths perspective in social work: Lessons from practice. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 38(3), 193-201	268
7.6.2.7	Gray, M. and Allegritti, I. (2002). Cross-cultural practice and the indigenisation of African social work. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 38(4), 324-333.	269
7.6.2.8	Nel, J.B.S. (2006). The application of a large group intervention method based on the asset-based approach: A repositioning of training in community development. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 42(3/4), 234-250	272

7.6.2.9	Lombard, A. (2008). Social work an economic partner in social development. Social work/Maatskaplike Werk , 44(2), 121-142	276
7.6.2.10	Reyneke, R. (2009). Using adventure to increase the emotional intelligence of the poor. Social Work/Maatskaplike Werk , 45(1), 47-61	279
7.6.3	Ideologies and discourse in the selected texts of the period 1994 - 2010	282

CHAPTER EIGHT: DATA PRESENTATION AND ANALYSIS: CONVERSATION ANALYSIS

8.1	Introduction and demographic details of participants	282
8.2	Analysis of group conversations	286
8.2.1	Introduction	286
8.2.2	Summary of themes	287
8.2.3	Ideological operations: Interpellation, modes of operation, conceptual determinations and critical processes	289
8.2.3.1	Introduction	289
8.2.3.2	Resisting obfuscating ideological operations and conceptual determinations	289
8.2.3.3	Legitimising relations of domination and oppression	292
8.2.3.5	Dissimulation as a mode of operation of ideology	295
8.2.3.6	Unification and postulates of unity and universalism	296
8.2.3.7	Reification and tendency towards formalism	298
8.2.3.8	Descriptions of the ideal and of mutability	300
8.2.3.9	Disjuncture between real and ideal	302
8.2.3.10	Professional subjectification and qualification	305
8.2.3.11	Critical processes	307
8.2.3.11.1	Critical conscientisation	307
8.2.3.11.2	Critical framework in social work knowledge and practice	310
8.2.4	Sites of ideological contestation	311
8.2.4.1	Power, oppression and privilege	311
8.2.4.1.1	Resisting oppression and power	311
8.2.4.1.2	Power and privilege	312

8.2.4.2	Agency and structure dichotomy and reciprocity	313
8.2.4.3	'Race', racism and racist discourse	315
8.2.4.3.1	Introduction	315
8.2.4.3.2	'Race' as categorization and objectification	316
8.2.4.3.3	Internalised oppression and racism	317
8.2.4.3.4	Encounters with racism	319
8.2.4.3.5	'White' talk, 'white' racial frame and racism	319
8.2.4.3.6	Disingenuous 'white' anti-racism	322
8.2.4.3.7	Discourse of diversity as euphemism	323
8.2.4.4	Ideologies and knowledges	324
8.2.4.4.1	Introduction	324
8.2.4.4.2	Disavowal of ideology	325
8.2.4.4.3	Capitalism, neo-liberalism and the free market	327
8.2.4.4.4	Liberalism, charity and paternalism	330
8.2.4.4.5	Social development as paradigm	331
8.2.4.4.6	Theoretical orientations	332
8.2.5	Politics of recognition versus redistribution	335
8.2.6	Reform or revolution	337
8.2.7	Nature of social work knowledge and practice constitutive of social change	339
8.2.7.1	Introduction	339
8.2.7.2	Oppressive, domesticating and colonizing knowledge and practice	339
8.2.7.3	Coercion and status quo maintenance knowledge and practice	341
8.2.7.4	Societal and institutional reformist knowledge and practice	344
8.2.7.5	Transformative and critical knowledge and practice	346
8.2.7.6	Revolutionary and radical social work knowledge and practice	348

CHAPTER NINE: SUMMARY AND CONCLUSIONS

9.1	Introduction	353
9.2	Summary of research aim and objectives	355

9.3	Summary of findings	356
9.3.1	Review of critical social science and social work theory	356
9.3.2	Analysis of discursive development of social work knowledge in formal social work texts	358
9.3.3	Analysis of narratives from social work educators at South African universities	360
9.4	Conclusions	362

REFERENCE LIST	367
----------------	-----

LIST OF FIGURES AND TABLES

Figure 1:	Paradigms of social work theory	64
Figure 2:	Discourse of nature of social work theory (Payne, 2005)	66
Figure 3:	Epistemic psychopolitical validity	69
Figure 4:	Transformational psychopolitical validity	70
Figure 5:	Theoretical framework of social work knowledge and discourse constitutive of social change	92
Figure 6:	Theoretical perspectives of titles	160
Figure 7:	Ideological positions regarding society and social change	165
Figure 8:	Social work knowledge and practice levels of intervention	172
Figure 9:	Frequency of apartheid and post-apartheid focus	182
Table 1:	Thompson's (1990) modes of operation of ideology	96
Table 2:	Summary of ideological processes	99
Table 3:	Overall theoretical perspectives of titles	157
Table 4:	Theoretical approaches within historical periods	158
Table 5:	Examples of theoretical perspectives of titles	162
Table 6:	Ideological positions of titles	163
Table 7:	Examples of ideological positions of titles	168
Table 8:	Forms of oppression and social work forms of practice across periods	170
Table 9:	Levels of intervention	171
Table 10:	Examples of titles at micro, meso and macro levels of intervention	173

Table 11:	Content areas of titles	174
Table 12:	Trends among categories of titles in 1965 - 1969	175
Table 13:	Trends of frequency of titles in 1970 - 1979	177
Table 14:	Categories in 1980 - 1985	178
Table 15:	Trends in content of titles during 1986 - 1993	179
Table 16:	Most frequent categories in 1994 - 1999	180
Table 17:	Most frequent categories in 2000 - 2009	181
Table 18:	Apartheid and post-apartheid focus	183
Table 19:	Demographic details of participants in group conversations	283
Table 20:	Deductive and inductive themes from data	288

APPENDIX A:	GROUP CONVERSATION GUIDELINE
APPENDIX B:	PARTICIPANTS' INFORMATION SHEET
APPENDIX C:	CONSENT FORM FOR PARTICIPATION, AUDIO RECORDING
APPENDIX D:	DEMOGRAPHIC INFORMATION SHEET
APPENDIX E:	THOUGHTS AND IDEAS: GENERATIVE THEMES
APPENDIX F:	HANDOUT: GLOSSARY OF TERMS AND DEFINITIONS
APPENDIX G:	READING LIST
APPENDIX H:	LIST OF TEXTS FOR ANALYSIS
APPENDIX I:	CURRICULUM OF JAN HOFMEYR COLLEGE, 1940

